

roberta fallon and libby rosos's artblog

Saturday, May 05, 2007

Survival plan for First Friday

Posted by libby

Joseph Hu used his own hair for the bristles in his replica of his grandfather's brush for clearing off eraser debris. It was one of a number of wonderful personal items he created for his first solo show at Pentimenti Gallery. Another outstanding piece was a replica of a shirt. But I loved each and every piece. Hu has the rare skill of doing personal without doing hermetic--and his control of his materials continues to be a wonder.